

It is my understanding that the National Association of Broadcasters is lobbying to prevent satellite radio providers from providing local content. What possible justification is there to support this other than trying to promote their own selfish interests? Please do your duty to the American public and refuse this request.

I am a subscriber of XM Radio and am really pleased with the content that they provide (and I pay for), especially the local traffic. XM Radio's traffic reports are far superior than any traffic report I have ever heard on a "local" station and I don't have to wait for the station to get around to it, it's continuous. Please do the right thing and allow this great product to continue.

Sincerely,
Raymond Fillmore
